Terrain:

Hogmoor is a former Army training area, and is now heavily used by the public. In areas of open forest without ground vegetation, mapped paths can be unreliable. Mapped ponds, particularly those mapped on open rides, may be shallow seasonal puddles; on race day, some may have little standing water. Additional leg protection is recommended as there is a significant amount of gorse and areas of brambles. Bracken is still in some 'white' areas Black X (ISOM 2017-2 feature 531 "Prominent man-made feature - x") represents a hide or other wooden structure. Please note the use of dashed green lines to represent distinct vegetation boundaries as per ISOM 2017-2
